Ellyse Perry brings up the 200 mark of her 213* during the 2017–18 Women's Ashes Test, the highest individual test score by an Australian woman This is a list of women's Test cricket records; that is, record team and individual performances in women's Test cricket. Records for the short form of women's international cricket, One Day Internationals, are at List of women's One Day International cricket records. Cricket is, by its nature, capable of generating large numbers of records and statistics. Women's Test cricket has been played since 1934–35 with essentially the same rules as are played today, and therefore many comparisons can be made of teams and individuals through these records. In general the top five are listed in each category (except when there is a tie for the last place among the five, when all the tied record holders are noted). Team notation (300–3) indicates that a team scored 300 runs for three wickets and the innings was closed, either due to a successful run chase or if no playing time remained. (300–3 d) indicates that a team scored 300 runs for three wickets, and declared its innings closed. (300) indicates that a team scored 300 runs and was all out. Batting notation (100) indicates that a batsman scored 100 runs and was out. (100*) indicates that a batsman scored 100 runs and was not out. Bowling notation (5–100) indicates that a bowler has captured 5 wickets while conceding 100 runs. Currently playing Current Test cricketers are shown in bold. From historic partnerships to record-breaking innings, these matches have witnessed teams pushing boundaries and etching their names in cricketing history. In this article, we explore the top 5 highest Test totals recorded in Women's Test, showcasing their resilience, skill, and determination on the international stage. Top 5 – Highest Team Total in Women's Test History India – 603/6d vs South Africa, Chennai, 2024 India posted the highest ever test total in history of women's Test matches, till date. India chose to bat first and declared their innings at an imposing 603/6 in 115.1 overs against South Africa. Shafali Verma broke records by registering the fastest-ever double hundred in women's Test cricket, reaching the 200-run mark in 194 balls, before ending up with a remarkable 205 runs, while fellow opener Smriti Mandhana contributed 149 runs. Further this total was supported by Jemimah's 55 runs followed by skipper Harmanpreet Kaur adding 69 runs and Richa Ghosh's innings of 86 runs. South Africa's bowlers faced a tough challenge, with Delmi Tucker taking 2 wickets. The innings featured strong partnerships and aggressive batting, setting a formidable target for Proteas to chase in their innings. Australia – 575/9d vs South Africa, Perth, 2024 Australia achieved an incredible feat against South Africa during the Perth Test between 15 to 17 February 2024. Australian batters on home soil dominated South African bowlers and thrashed them all over the ground. In this Test match, Australian put 575/9d in the second innings, where Annabel Sutherland had an impressive showing, playing a magical innings of 210 runs in 256 balls at a strike rate of 82.03. Alyssa Healy also made an important contribution, scoring 99 runs in 124 balls but unfortunately missed out on a century by just one run. As a result, Australia managed to win the match by an innings and 284 runs.Australia – 569/6d vs England, Guildford, 1998 In 1998, during Australia's tour of England, the visitors made an incredible record of scoring 569/6d in the second innings in Guildford. This Test was played between 06 to 09 August 1998, where Joanne Broadbent played a magical innings of 200 runs in 476 balls. Mel Jones' innings of 131 runs in 240 balls also helped Australia achieve this incredible feat. However, the game ended in a draw. Australia – 525 vs India, Ahmedabad, 1984 Australia on their tour of India in 1984, in the third test of the series between 03 to 05 February 1984 in Ahmedabad, scored 525 runs in the second innings before being all out. In that innings, Australia's Peta Verco scored an incredible 105 runs, and Karen Price also contributed 104 runs, helping the visitors reach this unbelievable target. A strong fight from the Indian batters, resulted in the Test being drawn. New Zealand – 517/8 vs England, Scarborough, 1996 During New Zealand's tour of England, the visitors scored 517/8 in the second innings of the first Test match of the series played between 24 to 27 June 1996 in Scarborough. Kirsty Bond played an extraordinary innings of 204 runs, and Shelley Fruin also helped with her 80 runs to reach this total. In this match, both teams played only a single innings in four days, resulting in a draw. CHENNAI: India set a new record for the highest team total in Women's Test cricket on Saturday, during the second day of the one-off Test against South Africa, surpassing Australia's previous best of 575/9 set in Perth this February.The milestone was reached when Richa Ghosh hammered a four off the opening ball of the 109th over, bowled by Annerie Dercksen. India's total soared past Australia's record to establish a new benchmark.Much of the credit for this historic feat goes to the stellar performances by Indian openers Shafali Verma and Smriti Mandhana. Verma scored a remarkable 205, while Mandhana contributed 149, combining for an iconic opening stand of 292 runs – the highest opening partnership in women's Test cricket.Their efforts were well-supported by Jemimah Rodrigues, who scored 55, along with skipper Harmanpreet Kaur and Richa Ghosh, both of whom remained unbeaten past their respective half-centuries.On Day 1, India had already made headlines by finishing at 525 for four, posting the highest-ever single-day total in Test match history. This achievement broke the previous record held by the Sri Lankan men's team, who scored 509 for nine against Bangladesh in Colombo in 2002. STATS HIGHLIGHTS Annabel Sutherland smashed a stroke-filled 210 against South Africa © BCCI Annabel Sutherland smashed a stroke-filled 210 in the ongoing Test against South Africa Women at the WACA, Perth, helping Australia register the highest-ever team total in Women's Tests. Here are all the key records that tumbled across the first two days' play: 575/9 by Australia is now the highest ever team innings score in Women's Tests, and the fifth in excess of 500 in the format's history. Interestingly, all of them have been scored by the team batting second. 500-plus innings totals in Women's Tests Score Overs RPO Team Opponent Venue, Year 575/9d 125.2 4.58 Australia (W) v South Africa (W) Perth, 2024 569/6d 180 3.16 Australia (W) v England (W) Guildford, 1998 525 156.1 3.36 Australia (W) v India (W) Ahmedabad, 1984 517/8 215 2.4 New Zealand (W) v England (W) Scarborough, 1996 503/5d 128 3.92 England (W) v New Zealand (W) Christchurch, 1935 4.58 runs per over is the highest innings run-rate in Women's Test for a minimum score of 250 (163 instances in all). Australia batters collectively hit 78 hits to the fence and three over it, the latter too, being the joint-highest count alongside three other instances. 76 - South Africa's 76 in the first innings is their lowest all-out total in the format. The only other instance of them getting bundled out under 100 came against New Zealand in Durban in 1972. It also happened to be the third-lowest team total against Australia, after England's 35 in Melbourne in 1958 and 72 in Adelaide in 1949, the former being the all-time lowest team total in Women's Tests. 499 is the highest lead taken by a team after first innings in a Women's Test, a new record, surpassing 459 by England (503/5d) against New Zealand (44 all-out) in Christchurch in 1935. 8 instances of seamers bagging all 10 wickets in a Women's Test innings, Darcie Brown (5/25), Sutherland (3/19) and Tahlia McGrath (2/4) contributing to the most recent one during South Africa's 76 all-out. Unsurprisingly, four of these eight instances have come at the WACA, Perth. 210 by Annabel Sutherland happens to be the fourth-highest individual score in Women's Tests, and the second best for Australia after Ellyse Perry's 213* against the England Women at the North Sydney Oval in 2017. The overall record belongs to Pakistan's Kiran Baluch, who had scored 242 against the West Indies Women in Karachi in 2004. Of the eight double-hundreds registered in Women's Tests till date, five have come for Australia. The only other 150-plus scores from No.5 or below in the format are Emily Drumm's 161* for New Zealand against Australia in Christchurch in 1995 and Marizanne Kapp's 150 for South Africa against England in Taunton in 2002. 22 years 127 days - At 22y, 127d, Sutherland became the second youngest Women's cricketer with a Test double, only behind Mithali Raj, who had got there at 19 years and 256 days in August 2002. Among Australians, the record previously belonged to Michelle Goszko (23 years, 261 days). 134 - The difference between Sutherland's 210 and South Africa's first innings effort of 76, the second-highest in instances wherein a batter outscored an opponent's team-total. The highest such difference is 145, achieved by England's Betty Snowball, who scored 189 in response to New Zealand's 44 all-out in Christchurch in 1935. 99 - Alyssa Healy became the fifth cricketer and the fourth Australian to be dismissed for 99 in Women's Tests. Interestingly, she is one of the two Women's cricketers to have a career best score of 99 in Tests (dismissed or unbeaten) alongside Jonassen, while her better half Mitchell Starc is one of the 10 such players in the Men's format. Starc was dismissed for 99 against India in Mohali in 2013.
